

<AddGroups>

The root element for XML passed to AddGroups.

Child Elements

The following elements can be children of this one.

Element	Description	Appears	Version Introduced	Pro Version Introduced
<Tab>	The tab to which the groups will be added.	Zero or more	1.0	3.2

Remarks

The AddGroups element is the root element when calling the AddGroups method. It does not matter where you got the XML snippet so long as there is a root element called AddGroups.

Inside this element, you can only have <Tab> elements. Tab elements must reference existing tabs. You cannot create new tabs. If you want to add new tabs, then you need to call the AddTabs method. Instead, any Tab element in this tag must include a Key attribute that references an existing tab. Everything inside the Tab tag is then handled normally, just as it would have been handled in the Init method.

Example

In the following example, we are adding a new group (which contains a bunch of new controls) to the Home tab. At the same time, we add a bunch of new empty groups to the already existing Insert tab.

```
<AddGroups>
  <Tab Key="HOME">
    <Group Key="NAVIGATE" Caption="Navigation" OptionButton="true">
      <Button Key="BTN_UP" BeginGroup="true">
        <Command Key="UP" Caption="Up" Shortcut="Alt+Up" SmallIcon="Icons\arrow_up.png" />
      </Button>
      <Button Key="BTN_DOWN">
        <Command Key="DOWN" Caption="Down" Shortcut="Alt+Down" SmallIcon="Icons\arrow_down.png" />
      </Button>
      <Button Key="BTN_LEFT">
        <Command Key="LEFT" Caption="Left" Shortcut="Alt+Left" SmallIcon="Icons\arrow_left.png" />
      </Button>
      <Button Key="BTN_RIGHT">
        <Command Key="RIGHT" Caption="Right" Shortcut="Alt+Left" SmallIcon="Icons\arrow_left.png" />
      </Button>
    </Group>
  </Tab>
